

HOW FIGHT STARTED NOT KNOWN; RUMOR MEXICANS ASKED A PARLEY

say the Yankees were ambushed by the Mexicans. The fight lasted for more than an hour, although the Mexicans are said to have had a machine gun ambushed in a position which enabled them to sweep the American line from end to end.

In spite of this the negro troops of the 10th charged twice, and finally one of them succeeded in getting near enough to the Mexican line to pistol the Carranza commander, Gen. Felix Gomez.

The first reports of the clash between the Mexicans and the Americans became known here when J. C. Hubble, an American, who had seen the bodies of a number of Mexicans, while returning to the border, and learned some of the details of the struggle from Carranza officers, brought the word here.

According to the fairly well substantiated story told by Hubble on his arrival here yesterday, the fighting started within sight of the Santo Domingo ranch. The Mexicans, under Gomez, apparently were on the ground when the American patrol, on its way to Villa Ahumada, the Mexican headquarters, appeared.

Gen. Gomez seems to have sent an aide-de-camp with a flag of truce to the commander of the American cavalry, warning him that he could not proceed, and instructing him to return to the American camp at once, and repeating the warning on the other day by Gen. Trevino to Gen. Pershing. The American officer refused to withdraw and sent word to Gen. Gomez that he was under orders to proceed direct to Villa Ahumada.

At this point the story of the battle becomes vague, the reports contradicting themselves. The Mexican reports of the affair say that Gen. Gomez sent a second messenger to the cavalry commander, reiterating what the first had said, and that as this second messenger drew close to the American line he was fired upon. American officials here disbelieve this statement, which was made by Gonzalez yesterday, but are unable to say definitely what actually took place as the details of the fight are still missing.

El Paso is ablaze with excitement and fury. The receipt of the news of the fight, and of the capture of a number of men by the Mexicans set the city wild. Mrs. Francisco Villa, who arrived here yesterday afternoon from New Orleans, declaring that she is on her way to search for her husband, was arrested by the special order of Mayor Lea of El Paso and deported to Juarez, without any reason being given. The patrols of the streets have been doubled and the international bridge is being carefully watched.

HAWAII'S G. O. P. FIGHT TO REGAIN DELEGATION TOLD

Congressman McKinley, Holding Rice's Proxy, Helps Territory's Cause

By JOSEPH R. FAIRINGTON

CHICAGO, Ill., June 19.—Hawaii will be considered a full-fledged territory and not a possession of the United States in future apportionment of votes in the national republican convention to nominate a candidate for president. Previously the Territory of Hawaii has been recorded as the Hawaiian Islands in the national committee, but through an amendment to a motion made by the credentials committee in its report to the convention recommending that Hawaii, Alaska and the Philippines be given two votes apiece, Delegate to Congress J. K. Kalamansole had "Hawaiian Islands" changed to "Territory of Hawaii."

This change assures Hawaii of its vote in future national conventions and may possibly lay the way for the increase of the island representation and vote from two to six. Through the efforts of the Alaskan, Philippine and Hawaiian delegations, a clause calling for a grant of two votes in the national convention to Hawaii in succeeding conventions was placed in the recommendations of the committee on rules to the convention. The convention adopted the report, again assuring the islands of a vote in the future.

The two votes which had been refused Hawaii in the reapportionment of delegates to the national convention of this year were regranted to the islands upon the adoption of recommendations of the credentials committee by the convention at its second meeting.

Through the efforts of the Hawaiian delegation and Henry J. Lyman, who served as the committee man from Hawaii on the resolutions committee, a plank stating that all officials of a territory shall be bona fide residents of the territory in which their work is to be performed was incorporated into the republican platform. There was no contest in the adoption of this plank.

With the first meetings of the national committee a few days before the opening of the convention, the Philippine delegation opened the fight for the recovery of the two votes which had been refused the Philippines, Alaska and Hawaii in the reapportionment of delegates to the convention this year. Congressman W. D. McKinley of Illinois, who held Charles R. Rice's proxy as national committee man from Hawaii, spoke Hawaii's part in this contest.

Disatisfaction among the Hawaiian delegates was caused by the refusal of Charles R. Rice to grant his proxy as national committee man to a member of the delegation. Although repeated letters and requests were made that he transfer his proxy to one more closely connected with the islands and the delegation, he continued to leave it in the hands of Congressman McKinley.

Mr. McKinley carried the contest successfully through the national committee. Hawaii, Alaska and the Philippines were granted two votes in the recommendations of this committee. Although the District of Columbia, also contesting for votes, did not meet with favor in this committee, Hawaii avoided the objections made against the District of Columbia on the basis of the difference in representation.

Delegates to Congress J. K. Kalamansole carried the contest into the credentials committee where favorable recommendations were obtained. In making an amendment to the motion calling for a recommendation to the convention that the islands be given back her votes, Prince Kuhio had Hawaiian Islands changed to Territory of Hawaii in order that the true position of the islands would be plain.

The representative from Tennessee was a bit unpleasant in objecting to the amendment. Otherwise there was little objection.

On the second day of the convention the report of the credentials committee was accepted, giving Hawaii her votes.

Robert W. Breckons was made national committee man from Hawaii by the nomination of the delegation and election of the convention on the second day of meeting.

Henry J. Lyman served on the resolutions and permanent organization committees and J. K. Kalamansole on the rules and credentials committees as representatives of the Territory of Hawaii.

The two votes of the territory were cast as follows in the nominations for president and vice-president:

First ballot: Kalamansole voted for Weeks and Lyman for Burton.

Second ballot: Kalamansole voted for Weeks and Lyman for Hughes.

Third ballot: Kalamansole and Lyman voted for Hughes.

In the only ballot for vice-president both of the Hawaiian votes were cast for Fairbanks.

It was the intention of the delegation to vote for two ballots as they had on the first, but Henry J. Lyman, working under the influence of a strong Hughes delegation around him, wanted to get on to the band wagon early, and cast his vote for Hughes instead of Burton on the second ballot.

In view of the work he has done for the islands a complimentary vote was

FINDS HAWAIIAN VILLAGE BETTER THAN EXHIBITS

That the Pan-Pacific Hawaiian exhibit at the San Diego Exposition would be much more effective if it could be moved to the Hawaiian Village, a concession at the fair, and shown there in the opinion of Ernest Kaal, who returned to Honolulu on the Matanua last evening.

The Hawaiian Village at the San Diego fair is much more interesting than the Hawaiian exhibit being shown in the Pan-Pacific building, said Mr. Kaal. "At the exhibit there is no music, and the exhibits are not so thorough nor as interesting as at the Hawaiian Village. The only drawback to the village is that it is a concession and liquor is sold there."

Mr. Kaal said attendance at the San Diego exposition is small, hardly more than 500 persons a day. He said the Hawaiian Village has a remarkably fine reproduction of Diamond Head. Mr. Kaal has been ill, and is recuperating from a recent operation in San Francisco for stomach trouble.

WRECK OF CAR SAID TO PROVE TOO HIGH SPEED

Both front wheels were smashed when automobile No. 157 crashed into the curbing while turning from King street into Kaimukau avenue early yesterday morning. The car is owned by Capt. E. L. Tindell and the police believe Capt. F. E. Ferris was driving when the accident occurred.

Detective Arthur Anderson of Capt. McDuffie's squad lives near the scene of the accident and hurried out when he heard the crash to see Capt. Ferris and others. He says, viewing the wrecked car, Anderson says that the machine must have been going at a terrific pace when it made the turn as both wheels were "skid" and one tire torn from the rim. Anderson says Ferris and others were racing down King street as recently as last Saturday night at a rapid pace.

Ferris was discharged recently by Judge Monahan when arraigned in police court on a charge of reckless driving and after several detectives had testified that he not only traveled at a break-neck speed but also refused to stop and only went faster when commanded to halt by the officers.

A check for $1,664.434 was received by the city of Chicago Surface Lines as its 55 per cent share of the net earnings for the last fiscal year.

MILLS COLLEGE OAKLAND, California

The high quality of the work done at Mills College is indicated by the fact that undergraduates transfer to the University of California and Stanford without loss of status, their credits being accepted at full unit value. There have been students among those transferred to Stanford who have been appointed to assistantships and residencies before securing the bachelor's degree, as well as during their year of graduate work. Typical instances are: Celeste Young, reader in history; Josephine Cross, assistant in German; Rachel King, assistant in mathematics.

Graduates of Mills College secure their second degree and their teacher's certificate at the University of California in one year. Dora Leman, B. S. Mills 1913, M. S. California 1914, is an instructor in biology in the Fresno Normal School; Joyce Leuner, B. L. Mills 1913, M. L. California 1914, is English in the Auburn Junior College. Further proof Mills College graduates have distinguished themselves as holders of scholarships and fellowships: Charlotte D'Arcy Mills 1911, Graduate Scholar in English at Bryn Mawr 1912-1915, and Mary E.
